

Garrett Reynolds

Attorney

(918) 582-1173

greynolds@rhodesokla.com

With his business background, Garrett is a natural fit for business litigation matters, as well as professional liability, insurance bad faith claims, Native American law and gaming, transportation and premises liability.

Highlights

Garrett's practice focuses on business litigation, professional liability, insurance bad faith, and construction litigation, with additional experience in technology and intellectual property matters, trademark litigation, transportation, gaming, premises liability, and Native American law. Garrett also advises clients in emerging and rapidly evolving industries involving artificial intelligence, digital commerce, data privacy, sports and entertainment agreements, and technology-driven business operations.

He routinely represents and litigates against businesses in matters involving substantial exposure, operational risk, and complex legal issues.

Garrett is a proud member of the Cherokee Nation and values the opportunity to work on matters involving tribal law, sovereignty, and issues impacting Native communities and businesses.

Education

Undergraduate: University of Oklahoma (Business Administration, Accounting & Finance) (Presidential Leadership Class)

Law School: University of Oklahoma College of Law (Articles Development Editor, American Indian Law Review)

Admitted to Practice

- Oklahoma

© Copyright Rhodes Hieronymus 2026. All Rights Reserved.